Action Discussion Informational

Background for NCEC CoW: The Blueprint Steering Committee has met and further refined our approach. Listed below is a summary of the changes discussed to date:

1. Change the name to reflect the actual work. The Steering Committee felt that the previous name was too broad and as a result too confusing. We have changed the name to better reflect a focused approach on engagement: Blueprint for Equitable Engagement.
2. Tell our story better. The Blueprint work is evolving and fluid. Our work will be informed through engagement with community over an extended period of time. However, we have taken a number of successful action steps already and we must always remind ourselves and others of the work already completed.
3. Summarize in a Concept Paper: In order to help articulate the work of the Blueprint, we have developed a Blueprint for Equitable Engagement Concept paper. This is intended to be a living document that will grow over time. This will be a resource for the community, neighborhoods, electeds, NCEC and the NCR department.
4. Be action oriented: We are calling this a strategic action plan with the intentional results. We have established a timeline to help track the work, establish expectations and hold ourselves accountable for completing tasks. We have also been very intentional about being realistic with managing the number of focus groups within the established timeline.
5. This is a collaborative effort between the NCEC and the NCR: Following a similar model as with the Community Connections Conference, this is a joint effort between the NCEC and the NCR with the intention of allowing flexibility, reduced process and focused on actionable results.

Blueprint for Equitable Engagement Concept Paper

The Blueprint for Equitable Engagement is a multi-year strategic action plan to ensure an equitable community engagement system for the City of Minneapolis

The City's Neighborhood and Community Relations (NCR) department and the Neighborhood and Community Engagement Commission (NCEC) are utilizing an engagement strategy consistent with the City's adopted Core Principles of Engagement to create the Blueprint for Equitable Engagement to ensure the City's engagement efforts are equitable in their approach and implementation. An equitable engagement system ensures that all community voices are sought and valued and that decision makers reflect the communities of which they serve. The Blueprint for Equitable Engagement focuses in the following areas of the City's engagement work:

1. Neighborhood organizations: We aim to help neighborhood organizations assess whether or not their outreach efforts, board decision making processes and distribution of resources is being conducted with a lens of equity and inclusion. The City intends to include the 70 neighborhood organizations as partners in addressing racial disparities in our community. With access to local political and social resources neighborhoods are able to utilize millions of dollars annually and become central places of empowerment for marginalized community members;
2. City's board and commissions: The City has a goal of having the advisory and planning boards and commissions reflect the diversity in the community. The City Council charged both the NCR department and the NCEC with making recommendations on the best way to achieve this goal. Recommendations have been developed and are in either being considered or implemented.
3. City enterprise outreach and engagement. The NCR department supports the community engagement efforts of City departments and connects this work with the efforts stated above.

The NCR department's Access and Outreach team will support the aforementioned efforts. The Access and Outreach team is dedicated to ensuring that equitable engagement practices are utilized where cultural norms and/or practices, language and disability create barriers. Specific initiatives that support equitable engagement include ADA support, the Latino Engagement Task Force and the American Indian Memorandum of Understanding. The department has initiatives to strengthen engagement with the Southeast Asian, East African and African American communities in 2014.

Work Completed To Date:

1. One Minneapolis Fund: This small grant fund administered by the NCEC supports leadership development in cultural communities and connects new leaders with the City's engagement system. Recently, many newly engaged residents who were informed by One Minneapolis Fund Grantees of the importance of City engagement ran for their neighborhood boards, 8 of which were elected as of May, 2014.
2. Neighborhood Priority Plans: Through the Community Participation Programs (CPP), neighborhoods are required to identify priorities and coordinate activities directly with governmental partners, including the City of Minneapolis.

3. City Board and Commission Diversity and Representation

- a. Streamlined Appointment Process for City Boards and Commissions: The NCR department, in collaboration with the City Clerk's office, worked with the City Council to coordinate all appointments to the City's boards and commissions twice per year, increasing awareness, understanding and ease of access for interested residents.
 - b. Increased Outreach: The NCR department utilizes its existing engagement networks to inform residents of vacancies on our boards and commissions, resulting in a significant increase in the number of applications. In some recent years applications have doubled.
 - c. City Academy: This annual 5 week course teaches residents about the operations of the City and serves as capacity building tool for prospective board and commission appointees. The program has run for 2 years now with 55 graduates.
 - d. BCLI and other Community Partnerships: Nexus Community Partners (Nexus') Boards and Commissions Leadership Institute (BCLI) is a 7-month leadership program that supports, trains, and places people of color and other underrepresented community members on priority, publicly appointed municipal boards and commissions that influence and impact equity in economic development, employment, health, housing and transportation in the Twin Cities Metro Area. In 2014, the first year of this program, 12 people graduated. The NCR department works with Nexus to connect graduates to Minneapolis' boards and commissions.
 - e. Boards and Commissions Diversity Survey: Every two years, the department conducts a diversity survey to track the composition of our boards and commissions. The survey measures a variety of diversity indicators such as age, income, race, disability, sexual orientation, gender and more.
 - f. Appointment Process Recommendations: In 2013, the NCR department and the NCEC recommended that the City Council adopt procedures for the appointment process modeled after the City's two most diverse commissions – The Workforce Council and the Neighborhood and Community Engagement Commission. The department is currently working with the City Clerk's office to operationalize this recommendation.
4. Community Connections Conference: The conference is an annual gathering of neighborhood and cultural organizations for the purposes of 1) sharing experiences and best practices; 2) Facilitating connections between organizations; and 3) supporting stronger relationships with the City of Minneapolis. Two conferences have been held to date with over +500 people attending in 2014.
 5. Equitable Solutions: The NCR department is part of the City's internal work team developing tools support equitable engagement by city departments. This effort is called Equitable Solutions which helps City departments consider equity implications of their budgeting, business plan, and program development and implementation.
